Why have I been charged a different amount than what was advertised on the website?

My document title

If you have recently made an online purchase and the amount charged to your credit card is different to the advertised price on the website or online store, there are several possibilities to consider:

Is the advertised price in a different currency to your local currency? Has shipping and insurance been included in the price of the item or service? Some online stores may add on these charges at the time of check out.

If you believe that you have been mischarged by a website, please contact our customer support department via support ticket.

When you contact us, please be sure to include the following details: Your name, Your email address, transaction ID, date and amount of purchase, The website or online store where you made your purchase.

My document title

ePaymentSupport.com has a commitment to ensuring that you are completely satisfied with the product that you have received and the way that your payment has been processed.

In rare situations however, it may be necessary to refund a transaction back to your bank account for a variety of reasons.

Our general refund policies, subject to our internal business rules are as follows:

Refunding physical goods and services.
